Scanning Methods

| IF  | THEN   |
|---|--|
| You have received documents and are readily able to locate their associated study items                                   | Locate the Study Items, create Expected Documents for them and supply all metadata, and print transmittals. (Click for more details)         |
| You expect to receive documents but don't actually have them, and are readily able to locate their associated study items | Locate the Study Items, then create and print transmittals without supplying all metadata.  (Click for more details)                         |
| You have received documents that don't have existing study items created for them   | Create a number of expected documents, completely index and match to proposed study items, and print transmittals.  (Click for more details) |
| You expect to receive documents that don't have existing study items created for them                                     | Create multiple expected documents, partially index if desired, then print transmittals.  (Click for more details)                           |