

Study Item

Definition: A document that has been designated as expected or received (even if not expected) in advance for a particular study. Study items may be empty placeholders awaiting content, placeholders that have been fulfilled with content, or placeholders that have been fulfilled by supplying reasons why content will not be collected.